

from Juked #4
Fall 2006

PATRICK WHITFILL

Character Development Through 69

You don't expect it to happen now, when you're barely undressing your words, showing off the bikini lines of your imagination. This happens later, after you've smelled moonlight in her neck and dangled kisses like honeysuckled vowels. But then, yes, your face in her crotch and hers in yours and suddenly you're twenty summers rolled up and tossed into the backseat of the biggest car you could never afford.